

Matt Watrous, Executive Director
Washington State Boys & Girls Clubs Association

Matt Watrous received his Bachelor's degree in Social Work from Calvin College and a Master of Social Work from Wayne State University in Detroit, Michigan.

Over the past ten years, Matt has worked with eight different non-profit organizations providing youth development, housing assistance, financial literacy, youth and family therapy, cultural history, community development, and community gardening services. Throughout his career Matt has focused his efforts on program development, community organizing, youth development, fundraising, and project management.

He spent the last five years working with the Boys & Girls Clubs of King County, first as Executive Assistant, and then Project Manager and member of the Senior Management Team.

In April 2010, Matt joined the Washington State Boys & Girls Clubs Association.

Matt lives in Seattle with his wife Laura, their daughter Anna, and four chickens. When he is not spending time with his family, Matt is working on his vegetable garden or backpacking in the woods.

"I see the awesome potential for the Washington State Association to bring resources, expertise, organization and capacity to local Boys & Girls Clubs."
